

ROOM DIVIDERS NOW

Thank you for your RoomDividersNow purchase. Instructions for installing your tension rod can be found below:

- 1) Lengthen the Tension Rod to a size approximately 1 to 2 inches larger than the distance between the walls that will hold the rod. To lengthen: hold one side of the rod while turning the other side counter clockwise.
- 2) If you plan on hanging curtains or a room divider from your rod:
  - a. Grab the allen wrench from your tension rod box.
  - b. Use the allen wrench to loosen (but don't remove) the set screw on one of the end caps just enough to remove the end cap.
  - c. Slide the curtain or room divider over the tension rod.
  - d. Place the end cap back in place on the rod and tighten the set screw with the allen wrench.
- 3) Now you are ready to install your tension rod.
- 4) Grab the rod at one end with both hands and place the end cap of the opposite end of the rod at the desired position on the opposite wall.
- 5) Push the rod against the opposite wall with enough force to cause the rod to reduce in size. You can then bring the end closest to you up to its' final position and release.
- 6) Make sure the rod has enough tension to stay firmly in place but not so much tension that might cause the rod to bend. You can increase or decrease the tension by turning the rod while still pressing the other end against the opposite wall.
  - a. If the tension is properly set, the rod will hold firmly in place. If the rod slips on the wall, it needs more tension and you should lengthen the rod a bit more.
- 7) Finally, lightly pull down on the rod and curtain to make sure it is secure.

*Please note: If smudge marks appear on the wall after the tension rod is in place, this can easily be cleaned off with any common household cleaner.
