

HAWAIIAN UMBRELLA BONSAI BONSAI

Our dwarf version of the Hawaiian Umbrella tree is one of the easiest bonsai to maintain. It does extremely well in low light environments making it perfect for the office or home. In warm weather, all indoor trees grow best outside. Never allow your indoor bonsai to freeze.

WATERING PROPERLY IS CRITICAL TO MAINTAINING A HEALTHY BONSAI!

Your Hawaiian Umbrella Bonsai should be watered thoroughly every two or three days. Never let a bonsai totally dry out. Water your bonsai properly by using a watering can or hose attachment that has a fine-spray end. You should thoroughly soak your bonsai's soil. Water should be running out of the drain holes. Misting foliage periodically is recommended, but, should not be considered watering.

General care is also important to maintaining a beautiful bonsai. Bonsai should be periodically trimmed to keep their miniature shape. To best understand trimming and wiring techniques, we recommend purchasing an instructional book.

FERTILIZING

Fertilizing Hawaiian Umbrella Bonsai is desirable especially in the spring. We recommend "Bonsai Pro" fertilizer which is part of our "Essential Bonsai Accessories" package.

INSECTS AND DISEASES

Insects and diseases can attack your Hawaiian Umbrella Bonsai just like any other plant. Inspect your bonsai regularly. A brisk spraying of the trunk and foliage will periodically help keep your tree clean. If any problems appear, most garden centers have products available for treatment.
