Haden's Heritage

Haden has a rich and innovative history, with over 150 years of manufacturing experience. Originally a bicycle making business in the late 1880's, A.H. Haden Motorcycles became 'Haden Bros' after Alfred's sons Donald and Denis took over the business in 1937. They began producing tank parts for the British military during WWII and shortly after, began manufacturing kettles.

Hadens' pioneering of the cordless kettle and notoriety for making the kettle safe for household use is why the brand, as we know it today, is synonymous with the words 'electric kettle'.

Following on from Haden's heritage in pioneering colour and design on kettles, we now take inspiration for new collections from the British countryside and stunning seaside towns.
