Brazilian churrasco is a unique culinary tradition of fire-roasting all types of meat over charcoal and open flames. This tradition, originating in the early 17th century by gauchos (cowboys) on small family farms in Southern Brazil, has been preserved through generations. In Brazil, churrasco is customarily prepared during all types of celebrations, bringing family and friends together to share food and hospitality. The authentic Brazilian churrasco tradition is now shared throughout the world in fine restaurants called churrascarias. Tramontina was founded in 1911 in the southernmost state of Brazil, the homeland of churrasco. For more than a century, Tramontina has made knives, utensils and accessories integral in the evolution and internationalization of the culinary tradition. Tramontina is proud to offer a series of products reflecting this longstanding Brazilian churrasco tradition.
