MATERIAL

All of our copper sinks are made from 99% pure mined copper. It is mined from ore (rock made up of different minerals) and goes through a long extraction process in order to achieve a sufficient amount of copper. We cannot say our sinks are 100% pure copper because it is possible for airborne materials to penetrate the copper during production. However, it is important to note that the copper we use is not recycled from scrap materials and does not contain particles of any other metals. Copper is naturally antibacterial and will not rust or stain, making it a low maintenance choice. All of our copper sinks are made by hand and are carefully hand-hammered to achieve their textured finish.
