

Bellefurn

Regarding Per- and Polyfluoroalkyl Substances (PFAS)

Certificate of Compliance

Per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances (hereinafter referred to as PFAS) are a group of highly persistent chemicals widely used in various consumer products.

PFAS are utilized for their unique properties, such as oil and water repellency and high-temperature resistance. To date, over 4,700 types of PFAS have been identified, and these substances are known to accumulate in humans and the environment.

This is to certify that:

- None of our products contain PFAS.
- We do not directly procure any PFAS materials.
- PFAS are not intentionally used in our manufacturing processes.

To ensure compliance, we have communicated our PFAS-free requirements to all suppliers and obtained their written declarations confirming adherence and upstream due diligence.

We remain committed to maintaining a PFAS-free supply chain. For any inquiries regarding this declaration, please feel free to contact us.