

Salvia

Hardiness Zones:

Zones 5-9

Sun Exposure/Watering:

Full sun, 6 hours of sunlight a day is needed to promote flowering. There are varieties that will also tolerate partial shade. Most varieties of salvia are drought tolerant once established, but they will look better with occasional water.

Bloom Period:

Spring to fall.

Growing Tips

Most salvias will be happiest in a sunny spot with good drainage. Use them along your home's foundation or as part of mixed perennial borders.

Caring for Salvia:

Deadheading is important to encourage repeat blooming. Most salvias are light feeders and only occasionally need fertilizer.

Pests & Problems:

No serious disease or pest problems affect salvia plants. Deer also tend to steer clear from salvias and other sages, as they do not like plants with a strong scent.
